Amendments to the Claims

- 1. (currently amended) [[The]] A method of using[[e]] [[of]] immunoglobulins for the treatment of pigs infected with PRRS virus.
- 2. (currently amended) The method immunoglobulins of claim 1, wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained through the exhaustive vaccination of egg-laying hens SPF-type with an inactivated PRRS vaccine.
- 3. (currently amended) The method immunoglobulins of claim 2, wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained through the extraction of the aqueous phase of egg yolk.
- 4. (currently amended) The method immunoglobulins of claim 2[[3]], wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained through the use of 0.001% sodium azide and 5% hydroxypropylmethylcellulose phtalate, and whose antibody title for PRRS should not be lower than 1:80 per each 0.050 ml.
- 5. (currently amended) The method immunoglobulins of claim 1[[4]], wherein in which the quantity used for the PRRS virus treatment in pigs should not be lower than 0.4 ml per kg of weight, administered intramuscularly.
- 6. (currently amended) The method immunoglobulins of claim 1[[5]], wherein the immunoglobulins are administered intramuscularly absorbed and then found in the blood flow of the treated animals.
- 7. (currently amended) The method immunoglobulins of claim 6, wherein the immunoglobulins are administered intramuscularly effer-protection against PRRS virus when they are administered every 2 weeks.

Please cancel claim 8 without prejudice.

9. (new) The method of claim 1, wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained preferably from hens of the SPF type.